

PHILADELPHIA GIRL, RED CROSS NURSE, TELLS OF HARDSHIP

Miss Mary Vanneeman, Traveling Abroad, Volunteered Services at American Hospital.

A graphic story of self-denial in the cause of humanity is told by a young Philadelphia woman, scarcely more than a girl, who spent several months as a Red Cross nurse in the American Ambulance Hospital on the northern outskirts of Paris, and who is now at the Presbyterian Hospital in this city recuperating after an operation for appendicitis.

Realizing that there would be need of nurses, Miss Vanneeman volunteered and established at the hospital for the wounded established by the American hospital at Etres.

After studying for some time, Miss Vanneeman was established at the branch hospital as a Red Cross nurse. She worked from 8 o'clock at night until 3 in the morning.

One French general, according to Miss Vanneeman, was brought into the hospital suffering from many bullet wounds. He was slowly recovering when he contracted pneumonia and died.

The hardest work of the nurse, Miss Vanneeman says, is to keep the soldiers from "fighting the Germans in the sleep."

Two nurses collapsed while Miss Vanneeman was serving at the hospital and had to give up the work.

Members of the English nobility are serving shoulder to shoulder with volunteers from every walk of life in the Red Cross service.

The hospital has 19 automobiles to bring in the wounded.

CHARTER FIVE STEAMSHIPS TO CARRY HORSES TO ALLIES

More Than 25,000 Animals on Way to Eastern Ports.

Five steamships, two American and three British, are now under charter to carry horses to French and British ports.

The vessels chartered are the American-Hawaiian steamship Missouriian, the Philadelphia-New Orleans steamer ship, and the British steamships Rappahannock, Shenandoah, and Kanawha.

When the contractors first entered the charter market for the transportation of army horses to France, the steamship owners could see no profit in this rate and rejected it.

When the contractors first entered the charter market for the transportation of army horses to France, the steamship owners could see no profit in this rate and rejected it.

WOMEN'S "COTTON RALLY"

Entertainment at Democratic Club Tonight.

The Women's Democratic Club will give a "Cotton Rally" at the Democratic Club, 360 Walnut street, tonight.

The clubhouse will be decorated with cotton and there will be colored buck and wing dancers and singers of old plantation songs.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 17.—Jacob Meyers, 80 years old, out of work and dependent over his inability to fight for German, committed suicide here today by hanging from a chandelier.

SCRANTON PASTOR BRINGS TIDINGS OF BILLY SUNDAY

Rev. Dr. Bull Tells Churchmen Here of Evangelist's Work.

A stirring message as to the good effect on church work of the "Billy" Sunday evangelistic campaign in Scranton was brought to about 300 Sunday school superintendents of Philadelphia and vicinity in the chapel of the Presbyterian Orphanage, 36th street and Kingsessing avenue, last night by the Rev. Dr. Griffin W. Bull, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Scranton.

Showing the audience a picture of 600 men, Doctor Bull said: "That's our men's Bible class, and they are not all there. Before 'Billy' Sunday came to Scranton we had 15 or 20 men. Now we have almost 700, and they attend regularly, too."

Before the big campaign I have seen the time when there were two men at the midweek prayer meeting. Now when I go to the church on Wednesday evenings it is not unusual for me to find 50 men around the piano starting the service before I arrive."

Previous to the address by Doctor Bull children of the orphanage entertained with songs and recitations. Mrs. David S. Craven, president of the institution, told of the self-sacrifice of the little boys and girls to extend relief to the children of war-torn Europe.

One morning, she said, the youngsters carried all their clothing, books and toys to her and wanted to send them to the orphans across the sea. As they could do that they were permitted to contribute a penny each, and they collected $7.38 for the cause. Those who did not have a penny were given a chance to earn one.

GRANGE SPEAKERS EMPHASIZE POINTS IN CO-OPERATION

Discussion Adjourns to Permit Delegates to Join Extensive Sight-seeing Motor Trip.

WILMINGTON, Nov. 17.—Co-operation in buying and selling occupied the attention of the National Grange at its session today, and the discussion was still on when the body adjourned at noon to permit members of the body to take an automobile trip to points of interest as guests of the members of the Delaware State Grange.

Speakers on co-operation were: John C. Ketchum, Michigan; A. B. Judson, Iowa; A. P. Reaction, Kansas; C. B. Kealey, Washington; C. S. Stetson, Maine; B. John Black, Maryland; J. D. Hume, Nebraska; George W. F. Gault, New Jersey; C. H. Rogers, New York; George W. Dixon, South Dakota; A. F. Hart, Wyoming; Henry Thompson, Delaware; Joseph A. Horton, California; J. A. Sherwood, Connecticut; Edward E. Chapman, Massachusetts; C. O. Raine, Missouri; O. E. Young, Montana.

SUMMARY OF POINTS.

These were the conclusions reached: First.—Local community co-operation is the first requirement of successful business co-operation.

Second.—In conducting co-operation enterprise the basis must be one man, one vote.

Third.—Adequate financial arrangements are absolutely essential to success.

Fourth.—Marketing of high grade products only, with honest packing and shipping absolutely essential.

Fifth.—Strictly cash basis, credit ventures being always a certainty.

Sixth.—Information bureaus at shipping centres an important requirement.

Seventh.—The Rochdale plan of co-operation in extensive operations in England and part tried in Kansas commended as an example of successful co-operation.

Eighth.—All successful co-operation must begin with the small local unit and proceed upward rather than start on State and National basis expecting to embrace the entire country later.

Ninth.—The confidence of the membership of any organization seeking to promote co-operative enterprises is a fundamental necessity.

A 13-year-old girl being treated in the automobile trip was made over some of the best roads in this section. The delegates visited New Castle, the spot where William Penn first landed in this country, a number of other historic points about New Castle, the county hospital, the big state hospital for the insane at Farnhurst, Fort Du Pont and Fort Delaware, the latter famous as a prison for rebel soldiers during the Civil War, military guns at Fort Du Pont and the monument at Cooch's Bridge where the American flag was first carried in battle. They returned by way of Newark.

There will be no more pleasure trips except on Thursday, when members of the grange will visit Delaware College and the University of Newark, where they will be given a banquet in the evening.

WOULD HALT IMMIGRATION.

The most important resolution so far presented to the convention, in the minds of some of the delegates, not excepting the matter of farm credits, is the one put in by F. Harland, of Idaho, which would halt the immigration of undesirable immigrants.

The members of the grange view the situation with considerable alarm. They feel that as soon as the present war in Europe is over, undesirable in the countries now at war will flock to this country and will be allowed to come here, while the desirable people will be induced to remain at home.

The ignorant who wish to escape military service, the incapacitated, the incapable and the dishonest will be the kind, it is feared, which will come here, and while the grange does not look on all ignorant foreigners as either dishonest or undesirable, members do feel that the kind of persons permitted to come here to make their future homes here are people who are qualified to absorb the customs and observe the laws of the country.

ART OF OPPOSITE SCHOOLS SEEN IN TWO EXHIBITIONS

Plastic Club and Sketch Club Show Interesting Contrasts Between Their Radical and Moderate Methods.

Art lovers of Philadelphia have just now an unusual opportunity for interesting contrasts between the moderate and the radical schools of painting, as shown in the two exhibits now open on South Camac street.

The one, at 247, the rooms of the Plastic Club, shows canvases and sculptural works by a group of former students of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts. The other, at the Sketch Club, No. 23, is a one-man exhibition of the work of H. Lyman Sayen, also a former student of the Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

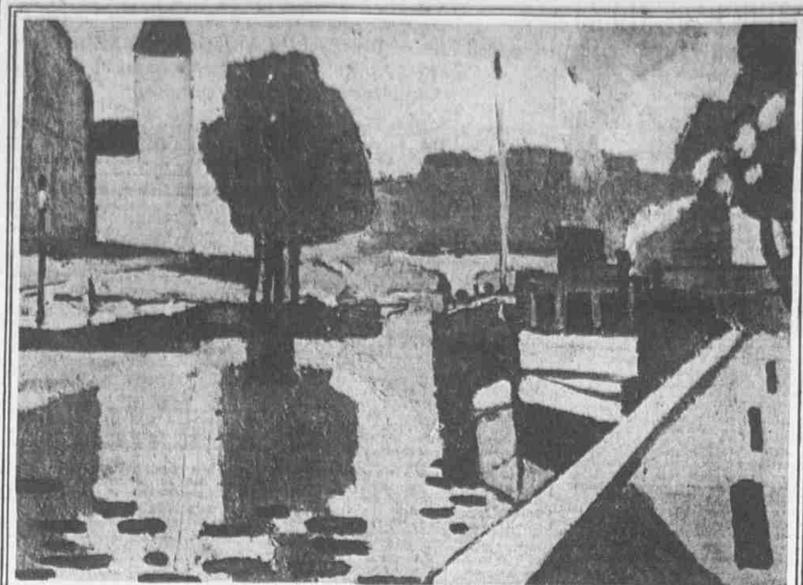

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

LATEST DEVELOPMENT OF FUTURIST ART SHOWN

Two of the pictures in H. Lyman Sayen's exhibit at the Sketch Club. Above, "On the Banks of the Seine." Below, "Boulevard St. Germain."

ART OF OPPOSITE SCHOOLS SEEN IN TWO EXHIBITIONS

Plastic Club and Sketch Club Show Interesting Contrasts Between Their Radical and Moderate Methods.

Art lovers of Philadelphia have just now an unusual opportunity for interesting contrasts between the moderate and the radical schools of painting, as shown in the two exhibits now open on South Camac street.

The one, at 247, the rooms of the Plastic Club, shows canvases and sculptural works by a group of former students of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts. The other, at the Sketch Club, No. 23, is a one-man exhibition of the work of H. Lyman Sayen, also a former student of the Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

There is a marked contrast between the two exhibits. The Plastic Club artists are all women. There is a group of bas-reliefs by the late Emily C. Bishop and a group of portraits by Beatrice Fenton. The other exhibitors are Ada C. Williamson, who has four canvases, Marjorie D. Martenet, of Baltimore, nine; Alice Kent Stoddard, seven, and Anne W. Strawbridge, eight animal studies. The four last named were all pupils of William M. Chase, at the Pennsylvania Academy.

HATFIELD TURKEY SALE CALLED OFF; BIRDS TO BE SCARCE

Abandoned Because of the Quarantine Imposed on Cattle—Poultrymen Fear Financial Loss.

There is to be no turkey sale at Hatfield this year!

This news has brought consternation to thousands of Philadelphians who fear their Thanksgiving dinners will be bereft this year as a result of the cancellation of this annual affair which has provided this city with many thousands of the very choicest gobblers ever seen on the market.

At Hatfield it was said that the sale had been abandoned because of the quarantine which has been imposed on cattle and the fear of the poultrymen that it will be spread to include the birds. This would, they claim, cause them great financial losses, and they are taking no chances. The farmers say that they will hold the birds over until Christmas time in the hope that the hoof and mouth disease will have been stamped out by that time.

The magnitude of the trade transacted at the Hatfield sale is well illustrated by the figures of last year, when 88 birds were sold on Thursday, November 20, the first day of the affair, and more than 1200 on Saturday, November 22, the second and last day of the sale.

Until this week preparations for the event were being carried on by every one in Hatfield and the neighboring country. Then news came from one of the largest shippers that he would send no birds this year because of the uncertainty of the quarantine on all live stock. This news spread rapidly, and almost within a day the entire affair had "fallen through."

Every one who had turkeys to ship from a distance decided to hold over, and there proved to be too scanty a crop of "near-bys" to make the sale worth while.

Reports from Philadelphia poultrymen show that thus far the turkey market remains very poor. There has not been sufficient bad weather, they say, to spruce the birds to cease their daily sprouts "cross country, and as a consequence the gobblers are remarkably thin. It is hoped that there will be a decided cold snap before the end of this week, for it is said that even in the few days remaining before Thanksgiving the birds could fetch up considerably.

Other Thanksgiving specialties, such as nuts, fruits and hot-house vegetables, continue plentiful and remain at reasonable prices. There is a large cranberry crop, and in case there are no turkeys on which to use the jelly cranberry pie will have to be substituted for the popular combination.

With the coming of cold weather, the authorities expect the cattle disease will disappear. Officials of the Pennsylvania Livestock Sanitary Board report its spread has been checked.

Fifty head of Lancaster County cattle, responsible for spread of the disease in the neighborhood of Pottsville, have been destroyed by Federal and State authorities. A few new cases of the plague have been reported, but the Live Stock Sanitary Board says this does not indicate a spread of the disease.

Montgomery and Connecticut were added to the list of quarantined States yesterday, making the total 15. Single outbreaks of the cattle disease were reported in each State.

The West Philadelphia stockyards are again open to receive cattle from unquarantined territory, the general cleaning and disinfecting campaign having forestalled any possibility of an outbreak there. All live stock received must be slaughtered immediately and a rigid inspection prevails.

The Herrs Island yards, at Pittsburgh, were reopened today, and the quarantine was lifted from the Chicago yards yesterday.

Business Men Banquet Tonight

The first annual banquet of the 103 and Market Streets Business Association will be held at Wroe's Hall, corner 53d and Sanson streets, tonight at 6:30.

Among the guests are Representatives J. Washington Logue, Edward W. Patton, State Senator-elect; Michael J. Ryan, City Solicitor; Edward James Cattell, city statistician, and C. W. Summerfield, secretary Merchants and Manufacturers' Association. The toast master will be Frank Reischer, president of the Association.

Necklaces

PEARLS DIAMONDS

J. E. CALDWELL & CO. 902 CHESTNUT STREET

HEAR CLEARLY.

World's Greatest Invention For the DEAF

The famous "Acousticon"—the instrument that will enable you to hear clearly under all varied conditions, no matter how deaf you are or how long afflicted, unless born deaf or stone deaf.

Over 100,000 In Use!

Three Times More Than All Others Combined

The famous "Acousticon"—the original—the world's most scientifically correct, most universally successful, electrical hearing device, is absolutely different from all others! Please remember this—do not confuse it with simple, unguaranteed microphones.

HEAR NATURE'S WAY! Some devices are made to look like the "Acousticon", but that's all. The wonderful scientific features of the "Acousticon" are protected by patents. Let us demonstrate how the remarkable indirect principle—an exclusive "Acousticon" feature—transmits sound nature's way.

FAMOUS "ACOUSTICON"

actually covers all 48 degrees of deafness—magnifies sound 400 per cent—regulates to suit your individual needs—the most remarkable hearing device for the deaf in the world.

You must not delay using an "Acousticon"—deafness grows worse when neglected. The "Acousticon" is the device that delicately exercises and livens the inactive muscles and nerves of the afflicted ears, checking the progress of deafness and usually decreasing the degree.

FREE TRIAL—No Deposit

10 days' free trial, and not one cent deposit! That's how we prove absolutely to our risk that you must use an "Acousticon"—that no other device even approaches it—no other device makes a no deposit, free trial offer—no other device dare compete with the famous "Acousticon".

EASY TERMS

Don't let back of money prevent you owning an "Acousticon"—our special liberal payment plan makes for risk and your talks to now hear clearly. Remember this—It is important that the "Acousticon" is the hearing device legally guaranteed to protect your hearing loss. Ask us about this.

GENERAL ACOUSTIC CO. 1008 Commonwealth Bldg. Philadelphia, Pa.

Call or Write If you like best call us at 1008 Commonwealth Bldg. Philadelphia, Pa. If you prefer to write, send us your name, address and telephone number. We will send you a complete literature folder and a 10-day free trial of the "Acousticon" with no deposit—no risk to you. Don't let back of money prevent you owning an "Acousticon".

Plant Now

Before the Ground Freezes

Hyacinths, Tulips, Narcissus, Crocus and all spring blooming bulbs.

We have the largest assortment in this country to choose from.

Hyacinths, single, mixed, 1 doz. $1.00 10 doz. $8.50

Tulips, single, mixed, 1 doz. $1.00 10 doz. $8.50

Narcissus, single, mixed, 1 doz. $1.00 10 doz. $8.50

Crocus, mixed, 1 doz. $1.00 10 doz. $8.50

Get Our Bulb Catalog. It's Free!

MICHELL'S SEED HOUSE

518 Market St., Phila.

Call Up Walnut or Main 3000 Today and order your Help Wanted Ads inserted in tomorrow's PUBLIC LEDGER

"The right man for the right place" will be found quickly.

Advertisement for Fruit Cake by E. Bradford Clarke Co. with details on ingredients and pricing.

Advertisement for Plant Now and Michell's Seed House, listing various bulbs and seeds for sale.

Large advertisement for Acousticon hearing device, featuring testimonials and contact information for General Acoustic Co.

Vertical text on the right edge of the page, likely from an adjacent page or a separate column.